

2019 NAMM Foundation Music Making Grants

Guidelines

BACKGROUND

The NAMM Foundation reviews and awards Music Making Grants each year by invitation only. Grants are considered for qualified nonprofit music service organizations who advance access to music making and implement innovative music learning programs serving diverse audiences. Funded programs are also scalable as national models for music education and music making. The Music Making Grant program advances the NAMM vision: we envision a world in which the joy of making music is a precious element of daily living for everyone; a world in which every child has a deep desire to learn music and a recognized right to be taught; and in which every adult is a passionate champion and defender of that right.

WHAT WE FUND—Applications are considered by invitation only

The NAMM Foundation reviews and awards Music Making Grant applications by invitation only; the application process is not open for general application for funding from the Foundation. Guidelines are provided for general information. The NAMM Foundation Music Making Grants support music-learning service projects from organizations with established nonprofit designation that expand access to music making and music education.

The NAMM Foundation supports programs for people of all ages that utilize music-making materials, are replicable as regional, national or international models, and include outcomes and impact measures, including the following:

- Group music programs with non-performance-based outcome goals, including group-based music programs facilitated within senior homes, hospitals, youth groups, etc. that provide a positive music-making experience to all participants regardless of prior experience.
- Innovative music curriculum models and programs that expand access to music learning beyond the traditional music education curriculum (band, choir, orchestra) and can serve as models for music education curriculum expansion.
- Programs that train music educators to supplement their existing programs with new methods, instruments or technologies, allowing them to teach music to students who may not be interested in traditional band, orchestra or choral programs, thus expanding access to music education for more students.

- Programs that train music educators and community youth leaders to utilize group-based informal music making as an after-school youth development and/or community-building tool.
- Projects and programs that serve specific demographics, including adults and active seniors, persons with special needs in community and/or health and wellness settings and other programs that are replicable, provide measurable results and are self-sustaining.
